1. Call to Order and Roll Call

Co-Chair Harriett Vegas, Las Vegas Paiute Tribe, called the meeting to order. Roll call was performed by Sherrean Whipple, Nevada Division of Emergency Management/Homeland Security (DEM/HS), and a quorum was established for the meeting.

2. Public Comment

Co-Chair Harriett Vegas opened the period of public comment for discussion.

Jim Lopey, Nevada Threat Analysis Center (NTAC) and Daniel Dundon, NTAC, reminded all tribes that NTAC provides free training, including a four-hour and eight-hour active shooter course and behavioral threat assessment management. Mr. Lopey explained that some of the training is being reviewed at the present time, but that both the active-shooter and behavioral threat assessment management trainings are currently available.

Dan Dundon, NTAC Critical Infrastructure Coordinator, explained that one of the things he does is go out and do vulnerability security assessments of facilities. Mr. Dundon indicated that he has done a lot of tribal properties but noted that there are still some that need to be completed. Mr. Dundon informed the group that this is a free service and that NTAC can flex to the tribes' schedules.

Co-Chair David Fogerson informed the group that the FEMA Region IX liaison will be talking about the upcoming tribal conference that will be held in Palm Springs.

There was no additional public comment.

3. Approval of Minutes

Co-Chair Harriett Vegas called for a motion to amend or approve the draft minutes of the February 5, 2024, NTECC meeting. Ken Quiner, Washoe Tribes of Nevada and California, motioned to approve the minutes. Ross Rivera, Ely Shoshone Tribe, noted on page 7, 13th line down, the word “hat” should be “that”. Mr. Rivera seconded the motion with the correction. The motion carried unanimously.

4. Discussion on the Status of the DEM/HS Efforts to Assist our Tribal Nations

Co-Chair David Fogerson explained that this is DEM/HS's quarterly check-in to ensure that needs are being met. Co-Chair Fogerson noted that he is interested to hear if anything needs to change. Co-Chair Fogerson informed the Council that there is currently a lot of hazard mitigation training going on, along with the training spoken of by the NTAC representatives. Co-Chair Fogerson next indicated that the election tabletop should have now gone out to all tribal nations. Co-Chair Fogerson further noted that there has been a change in the state tribal liaisons, and currently Josie Burnett is the only liaison.

Ross Rivera commended Josie Burnett on the work she has done as a tribal liaison.

Co-Chair David Fogerson informed all members that they should contact him in some way should they come up with something that they would like to see change on the DEM/HS side.

5. Discussion on the upcoming 2024 Elections and How it Will Impact Emergency Management

Co-Chair David Fogerson explained that a few weeks ago, DEM/HS performed an exercise at FEMA headquarters called Foresight 2050 to try and determine what the future could bring. Co-Chair Fogerson reminded the Council that Col. Brett Compston will be replacing him in October, and next noted that he has had many concerns regarding the elections, not from a political party point of view, but from a security point of view, noting that there will be issues as a result of the elections, regardless of which party wins. Co-Chair Fogerson explained that DEM/HS worked with CISA and with the Secretary of State's Office and built some tabletop exercises that should have gone out to all the tribal emergency managers the previous week.

Co-Chair Harriett Vegas questioned how many tribes have a voting station on their reservation.

Co-Chair David Fogerson indicated his belief that every tribe should have access to a voting location. Co-Chair Fogerson indicated the need to do some research regarding these sites in order to communicate this information to the tribes. Co-Chair Fogerson explained that the hope is for a fair, open, democratic election on election day, free of things like active assailants, power issues, and weather events. Co-Chair Fogerson encouraged Council members to look at the tabletop exercises and hold discussions with law enforcement, elders, and fire services in preparation for bad things that could potentially happen, no matter how far-fetched they may seem, noting the importance of not having another 9-11 moment where there was failure to imagine and as such, lack of readiness.

6. Nevada Readiness Days

Co-Chair David Fogerson, noted that he is filling in for Lindey Downey on this agenda item, as Ms. Downey is out of town. Co-Chair Fogerson informed the Council that each month, DEM/HS picks a day called Readiness Day, which includes a two-hour block on a Wednesday morning in which different topics, such as cybersecurity, are addressed via things like tabletop exercises and guest speakers. Co-Chair Fogerson indicated that on May 8, he and Col. Brett Compston will be doing a fireside chat to introduce Mr. Compston and his leadership abilities, and invited all Council members to attend, noting that Josie Burnett would send out an invite. Co-Chair Fogerson next indicated that in June, NTAC will be coming to discuss all that they do, and in July, there will be either be discussions beginning regarding communications and cybersecurity from the State of Nevada Radio Communication system, or some lifeline training. Co-Chair Fogerson explained that in August, all federal employees will show up following Kris Haines' mission to bring all the federal agencies and the state into the loop. Co-Chair Fogerson indicated that Mr. Haines would like to bring them all in for Readiness Day. Co-Chair Fogerson informed the Council that Casey Keckler, DHS Intelligence Officer, now holds a monthly meeting of all of the federal intelligence folks, and explained that DEM/HS is now trying to follow that same concept with the non-intelligence folks. Co-Chair Fogerson indicated that September will be the election security tabletop, held in conjunction with the Secretary of State's Office with a focus on incidents occurring in multiple counties and the support that would be needed in the case of that type of an incident. The Co-Chair then explained that October would be an internal exercise, November would include resource management, and the December one will be in the form of a game to see who wins, with questions based upon all the Readiness Days throughout the previous year. The Co-Chair informed the Council that these Readiness Day trainings are offered in hopes of building relationships among all the different entities: cities, counties, tribal, state, and federal partners. Co-Chair Fogerson concluded by informing the council that if members are not available to attend locally, all trainings are available online.

7. Update on the Tribal Health Preparedness Efforts

Emily Gould-Monaghan, Public Health Preparedness Program, informed the Council that the main activity right now is the upcoming 12th Rural Preparedness Summit that will be held in the Elko conference center on May 15 and 16. Ms. Gould-Monaghan explained that there is still room available, and anyone with questions about the registration process should feel free to reach out to her. Ms. Gould-Monaghan indicated that now, the site includes a conceptual agenda, and the actual agenda is in progress and will be attached once it is complete. Ms. Gould-Monaghan next discussed some of the training topics planned for this year: disasters in seconds pediatric triage training for medical professionals; a hazmat interlocal tabletop exercise; access and functional needs exercise and training; railroad hazmat safety discussions. Ms. Gould-Monaghan informed the Council that this year's keynote speaker will be Chairman Serrell Smokey from the Washoe Tribe. Ms. Gould-Monaghan next discussed the work being done on the five-year strategic plan, which will outline all the goals and activities PHP would like to accomplish with its partners over the next five years. Ms. Gould-Monaghan indicated that right now surveys are being sent, and once that data is back, it will be incorporated into the plan. Ms. Gould-Monaghan explained that the original goal was to have the draft out by May 30, but noted that the timeline has been delayed too early to mid-June. Ms. Gould-Monaghan explained that PHP is also keeping an eye on measles and Avian Flu activity, noting that Nevada has not really been affected by either, but nonetheless, guidance has been sent out to rural partners from USDA on prevention measures and vaccinations. Ms. Gould-Monaghan further noted that the Rural Healthcare Preparedness Partners Coalition is holding the Rural Consortium Training for their coalition partners June 11 through 13 in Reno at the Whitney Peak Hotel and will include multiple different training topics. Ms. Gould-Monaghan indicated that space is a bit limited and encouraged anyone interested to reach out to her directly and she will do her best to include interested parties on that list. Ms. Gould-Monaghan concluded her presentation by informing the Council that PPH will be participating in a full-scale patient movement exercise in Reno over the summer with its Federal HHS Partners, and that it will be through the VA at the Reno Air Force base.

Ken Quiner requested that all the trainings be added to one calendar or list to make it easier for participants to keep track of everything being offered.

Emily Gould-Monaghan indicated that she could put together a list to send out to everyone.

Co-Chair David Fogerson suggested that the PHP training be added to the Nevada training qualifications website so that all emergency managers can find all training in one spot. Co-Chair Fogerson requested that Ms. Gould-Monaghan send the list to Josie Burnett to facilitate that.

8. Update from the Inter-Tribal Council of Nevada (ITCN)

Clifford Banuelos, Tribal-State Environmental Liaison for ITCN, indicated that ITCN just completed a 24-hour HAZPOWER training for some tribes in Nevada in a coordinated effort between ITCN and Inter Tribal Council of Arizona. Mr. Banuelos further indicated that an eight-hour refresher class was held, which is something that is put out to the tribes every year. In addition, Mr. Banuelos noted that ITCN anticipates having a follow-up Incident Command System training, ICS 300 Training, in Lake Tahoe, also as a coordinated effort between ITCN and Arizona and Lake Tahoe. Mr. Banuelos concluded by noting that ITCN is actively involved with the voter registration efforts by the tribes and tribal groups, all of whom have a polling location in Nevada.

9. Update from the Nevada Indian Commission (NIC)

Ms. Dixon explained that hazardous fuels accomplishment for 2024 is going to be approximately 28,000 acres, approximately 19,000 of which will be in the WCS Sierra Front Elko. Ms. Dixon next discussed some of the notable things that happened throughout Nevada, including a statewide effort to establish a statewide potential operation delineation for the entire state. Ms. Dixon indicated that the Nevada Fire Board will host five Type-3 incident management teams for the 2024 season, which is going to be more than any other state in the nation and noted that interagency wildland fire modules will be in Ely between NDF and Forest Service employees for the 2024 season. Ms. Dixon further indicated the plan for statewide fire restrictions to align agencies to be able to communicate better and more easily with communities and noted that a statewide dispatch agreement to align all dispatches under one agreement is in process, with a target completion date of fall of 2024.

Co-Chair Fogerson indicated that each project this year will be weighed against the other projects.
